Streams are designed to offer more focused help and encouragement than the talks and include highly practical and interactive elements.

stream 1: fresh

This is for those of you who have practically never preached but would like to give it a go. In this stream we cover fundamental topics like: the meaning of expository preaching; why preaching is important, and; the principles behind good preaching.

stream 2: rookie

Preached a few times and want to develop as a preacher? This is for you. Rookie covers things like effective application and how to engage listeners with God's word.

stream 3: coach

We are looking for Christian leaders and teachers who are keen to raise up preachers, committed to establishing a firm foundation for tomorrow's church. Interested? Join us as we think through how to do this Biblically and effectively.

speakers

Last year Mikey Lynch and Mike Raiter thrashed out what it looked like to be a Spirit-filled Preacher.

This year we have invited Mikey back along with Peter Adam and Peter Ko to address the issue of preaching for numbers: Is it a legitimate aim? How much do we need to focus on rhetoric and being culturally relevant? Is being faithful necessarily opposed to being a popular preacher?

peter adam needs no introduction, but just in case he does: Peter is the Principal of Ridley Theological College, Melbourne. He has had extensive experience as a preacher, including 20 years as minister of St Jude's Carlton. But most notably, he has a dog called George.

mikey lynch is the pastor of Crossroads Presbyterian Church, Hobart, which he helped plant in 2001. He aims to preach from God's word in plain, vivid speech, to bring it to bear on the world of his hearers. Mikey loves cooking, watching boxed sets and reading modernist novels.

peter ko has been a pastor at Chinese Christian Church Milsons Point for 3.5 years. His passions include preaching, reading, playing Wii, and strumming his guitars. His favourite preachers are C.J. Mahaney, Mark Driscoll and Matt Chandler.
